

2 Corinthians 2

¹ But I _____ this within _____, that I would not _____ again to you in _____. ² For if I make you _____, then who is he who makes me _____ but the one who is made _____ by me?

Forgive the Offender

³ And I wrote this very _____ to you, lest, when I came, I should have _____ over those from whom I ought to have _____, having _____ in you all that my _____ is the _____ of you _____. ⁴ For out of much _____ and _____ of _____ I wrote to you, with many _____, not that you should be _____, but that you might know the _____ which I have so _____ for _____.

⁵ But if _____ has caused _____, he has not _____ me, but _____ of you to some extent—not to be too _____. ⁶ This _____ which was inflicted by the _____ is sufficient for such a man, ⁷ so that, on the contrary, you ought rather to _____ and _____ him, lest perhaps such a one be _____ up with too much _____. ⁸ Therefore I _____ you to _____ your _____ to him. ⁹ For to this end I also _____, that I might put you to the _____, whether you are _____ in _____ things. ¹⁰ Now whom you _____ anything, I also _____. For if indeed I have _____ anything, I have _____ that one for your _____ in the _____ of Christ, ¹¹ lest _____ should take _____ of us; for we are not _____ of his _____.

Triumph in Christ

¹² Furthermore, when I came to _____ to preach Christ's _____, and a _____ was opened to me by the Lord, ¹³ I had no _____ in my _____, because I did not find _____ my _____; but taking my _____ of them, I _____ for _____.

¹⁴ Now _____ be to God who always _____ us in _____ in Christ, and through us _____ the _____ of His _____ in every _____. ¹⁵ For we are to God the _____ of _____ among those who are being _____ and among those who are _____. ¹⁶ To the _____ we are the _____ of _____ leading to _____, and to the _____ the aroma of _____ leading to _____. And who is _____ for these _____? ¹⁷ For we are not, as so many, _____ the _____ of God; but as of _____, but as from _____, we _____ in the _____ of _____ in _____.